      WT Docket No. 06-150
      GN Docket No. 09-191

Dear Ms. Dortch:

On December 6, 2010, Philipp Humm, President and Chief Executive Officer of T-Mobile USA, Inc. ("T-Mobile") and Peter Ewens, T-Mobile's Chief Strategy Officer, accompanied by the undersigned, attended separate meetings with Commissioner Michael Copps and John Giusti, Commissioner Mignon Clyburn and Louis Peraertz, and Commissioner Meredith Baker, Charles Mathias, and Rafi Martina. Neville Ray, T-Mobile's Chief Technology Officer, and Steve Sharkey, Chief of Engineering and Technology Policy at T-Mobile, also attended the meeting with Commissioner Baker and her staff.

During the meetings, the T-Mobile executives introduced themselves and provided a brief general overview of the important role T-Mobile will continue to play in benefiting consumers in the wireless industry with competitive value and choice. We discussed how, by virtue of its ongoing 3G and now HSPA+ 4G network buildout, T-Mobile now has the largest network in the U.S. where consumers can benefit from 4G speeds. We explained that T-Mobile's HSPA+ 4G network reaches 75 major metropolitan areas today, and will reach 100 major metropolitan areas by year-end, covering approximately 200 million people. The T-Mobile representatives also expressed our strong support for the Commission's ongoing efforts to make more spectrum available for mobile broadband use as quickly as possible in order to accommodate future growth and mobile broadband technology.

In addition, the T-Mobile executives discussed the pending proceedings identified above, urging the FCC to move forward rapidly on its data roaming and D Block dockets consistent with the recommendations of the National Broadband Plan. Finally, the T-Mobile executives expressed the need for flexibility as network management rules are considered to ensure that emerging and innovative business offerings are able to launch in the competitive wireless marketplace. In discussing each of these issues, the T-Mobile representatives reiterated the views T-Mobile has expressed in its previous filings with the Commission.

Pursuant to Section 1.1206(b) of the Commission's rules, an electronic copy of this letter is being filed with the office of the Secretary.

Respectfully submitted,

/s/ Kathleen O'Brien Ham
